

Soaring to the Skies and Exploring Cultural Roots: The "Aviation Escape Experience and Chinese Culture Two-Day Tour" Concludes Successfully

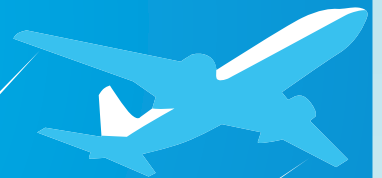

Some Secondary 3 to Secondary 5 students of our school travelled to Guangzhou from March 20 to 21, 2026, to participate in the highly meaningful "Aviation Escape Experience and Chinese Culture Two-Day Tour". We would like to express our heartfelt gratitude to Ms. Emily Lau, President of the Y's Men of Tsim Sha Tsui and an outstanding alumna of our school, for her strong recommendation that made this event possible.

Despite her busy schedule, Ms. Lau also took the time to personally accompany the teachers and students throughout the two-day itinerary, providing students with an invaluable opportunity for learning and growth.

On the first day, students visited a training centre for professional aviation safety experiences. From basic theories to practical operations, the captain humorously shared interesting flying stories and the selection criteria for pilots. Students learned a wealth of emergency escape knowledge, such as the safety considerations behind straightening seats, stowing tray tables, and opening window blinds before takeoff. Furthermore, students personally entered a 1:1 simulated passenger cabin and experienced the emergency escape slide. The itinerary also included nebula exploration, desktop flight simulation, and FTD flight experiences, which, combined with a Virtual Reality (VR) rocket launch experience, allowed students to immerse themselves in an astronaut's journey into outer space. This allowed them to experience the awe-inspiring advanced technology and further stimulated their strong curiosity in the aviation field.

Amidst the thrilling aviation training, the trip also covered rich Chinese cultural explorations. Teachers and students visited the famous Chen Clan Ancestral Hall in Guangzhou. Although they encountered heavy rain during the visit and could only listen to the guided tour outside the building, it did not dampen their enthusiasm for exploring traditional Lingnan architecture, intricate carvings, and historical culture. This visit allowed students to deeply understand the heritage, customs, and artistic achievements of ancient China, and to appreciate how history and culture have been carefully preserved. Regarding meals, students were able to taste authentic traditional Chinese cuisines at every meal. Sharing meals together allowed classmates to bond and create happy memories throughout the journey. As for accommodation, the aerospace base hotel they stayed in was spacious and tidy, providing a comfortable resting environment for the two-day, one-night study tour.

To consolidate the learning outcomes, the school specially organized a post-trip sharing session and invited two students to attend. In a relaxed and joyful atmosphere, teachers and students enjoyed a rich buffet together and shared their insights and highlights of the journey. Chun Hiu Sing from Class 4A shared that this trip not only taught him a wealth of practical survival knowledge, but the excellent environment of the aerospace base hotel also completed the final puzzle piece of a perfect study tour, allowing him to truly experience what it feels like to be a pilot. Glauber from Class 5C mentioned that this Guangzhou trip was truly meaningful. The various innovative and interactive experiences were not only full of fun but also inspired their endless imagination for the future, making everyone deeply appreciate the importance of innovation and teamwork. On behalf of all students, he also extended the most sincere gratitude to the Principal, sponsors, teachers, and the entire behind-the-scenes team who made this trip possible.

Through this Guangzhou study tour, students not only enhanced their emergency response and problem-solving skills during the professional aviation training but also deepened their understanding of our country's history and culture through field trips, effectively strengthening their national identity and multi-dimensional thinking skills. Once again, we thank our alumna Ms. Lau for making this trip possible and accompanying us. We hope that students will turn what they have learned and felt from this journey into motivation for future exploration and dream-chasing.

Thank You Our Alumna Ms. Emily Lau (Left Three)
